Nationalization

About 2:30 this morning I turned over to listen to a strange noise. It sounded like a ball rolling down a bowling alley — powerful but smooth — as it glided from the East, passed the downtown district, and went on. The Missouri Pacific diesels were back with us again, reassuring, as all familiar sounds are reassuring.

Robert M. Wilson reported orally: "You can tell 'em the mail service is back at par — and the Hope postmaster has recovered what passes for his normally good humor."

You might think that Hope would be a good safe neutral ground for observers of a football game between SMU and Kentucky, but it ain't so. A number of the local gentry attended last Saturday's hubbub in Dallas, and if I were conducting an Inquiring Reporter Column here are some of the replies I would get:

John Vesey: Kentucky wuz robbed.

Guy Watkins: Viewing it impartially, even though I have a kinsman on the Kentucky team, it is my opinion the Texas officials stink us out.

Robert M. Wilson: Looking at it impartially, Kentucky just got some bad breaks — and SMU has a wonderful team.

Neutral ground? There is no neutral ground when you speak of football — as witness this impartial post-mortem on a game played 223 miles from here.

The farm mechanization figures for Arkansas released yesterday in Little Rock by Miles McPeek, federal crop statistician, are worth repeating here.

On January 1, 1948, Arkansas had 39,000 tractors on the farm — a gain of 43 per cent over the year 1945, and 300 per cent above the prewar year 1940.

Nationally, the farm tractor population has doubled since 1940 — with a corresponding decline in horses and mules. These fell off 31 per cent from 1945, 42 per cent from 1940 — and 68 per cent from 1910.

Truly a striking story of mechanization. Draft animals are on the way out, but the total of all farm animals has vastly increased, with more efficient methods in the production of feed. Our old cotton country has gone in heavily for dairy and beef cattle. The world has less demand for draft animals, but the demand for milk and beef is unlimited.

The government may have to move in on the steel and coal mining industries as the strike deadlock persists.

But there is no real threat of nationalization, even should the government make a temporary satiation. In America both steel and coal have economically dangerous competitors, which poses quite a different problem to nationalization here in comparison with nationalization in Great Britain.

The British have no oil or natural gas in their own country. America has vast supplies of both.

Our government may enter a strike-bound industry, but it isn't going to stay permanently — for government isn't a good operator of anything except monopolies.

Search for Eight Convicts Spreading

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 27 — (AP) — A widespread manhunt was on today for eight convicts who escaped from the New Castle county prison with guns and ammunition taken from the jail arsenal.

The eight — led by a 20-year-old life term prisoner — made a daring break through the prison's front gate last night after locking up Guard Captain Harry Harrington and using another guard as a shield.

A blast of machine gun fire from a prison tower failed to stop them.

Five of the escapees were reported to have boarded a Pennsylvania railroad freight train bound for Reading, Pa. Two others forced J. L. Ellicott, a stationary store clerk, to drive two blocks in his own car and then shoved him out before driving off.

The car was recovered several hours later, abandoned in Kennett Square, Pa.

State police established roadblocks throughout the Wilmington area, alerted authorities of adjoining states to be on the lookout for the men, described as "dangerous."

Danny Norris, 20-year-old life term convict of slaying Wilmington Detective Thomas Conaty on Christmas, 1947, asked Harrington for an aspirin. The convicts then jumped Harrington and Guard Harry Beck.

State Allows Claims to Prescott Men

Little Rock, Oct. 27 — (UPI) — The Arkansas board of fiscal control has allowed claims against the state totaling approximately $22,460 in its regular monthly meeting here.

All but $1,290 of the total went to employees of the state whose wage claims were submitted earlier to the workmen's compensation commission for the commission's recommendations.

The fiscal control board accepted the commission's findings in awarding claims totaling $31,170 for damage suffered by eight employees of the state during the period March 10, 1947 to March 15, 1949.

Benton county was allowed a $1,000 claim on the costs of securing the right-of-way for a road. The county had paid the total cost with the understanding that the state would pay its share later.

The board disallowed two claims, one for $199 filed by Birtum Price of Paragould and the other for $33 asked by J. L. Thornton of Benton.

Mrs. Lillie Bashan of Clarksville was allowed a claim for $100 and Emma Lovett of Hattieville one for $100.

The following claims were allowed workers with the state highway department:

Millard Gullet of Nettleton, $900; Leroy Martin of Prescott, $4,503; Clyde Parrish of Ozark, $2,321; J. M. Wood of Ashdown, $1,491; M. S. Wood of Wilson, $1,312, and Dell Kendall of Fayetteville, $4,276.

Floyd Canaday of Fayetteville, employed as a county agent by the University of Arkansas, was allowed a claim for $3,550.

The other state employee was Guy C. Russell of Arkadelphia who was awarded a claim for $2,500.

Convinced Son Shot Himself

Memphis, Oct. 27 — (UP) — Dr. C. M. Concur, an optometrist, was convinced today that his 18-year-old son Maurice fatally shot himself at his high school ROTC building, although police have not listed the death as a suicide.

Young Concur died within the hour after the shooting yesterday. He had a bullet wound in the head and at his feet was a single .30-06, 22 caliber rifle used by ROTC students.

Sgt. Vernon B. Blomquist of the Memphis Tech high ROTC said that he was in the armory which houses the range; that he heard a shot and turned to see Maurice on the floor.

Maurice was considered an expert marksman on the school's rifle team.

Inspector Pete Wiebenga head of the police squad said that the student's death is being carried on police as a "shooting."

However, the youth's father was quoted as saying "my son shot himself. He told his stepmother he was going to kill himself just yesterday."

"I still can't believe it," the disheartened father said. "I keep hoping I'll wake up, but he's the one who won't wake up."

Policeman Concur as saying that his son had been anxious to quit school and had been depressed the past several days.

TRUMAN SIGNS MINIMUM WAGE LAW — President Truman signs the minimum wage law at his desk in Washington. The law increases minimum wages from 40 to 70 cents per hour. Navy Plans to Carry A-Bombs by Submarine

Pearl Harbor, Oct. 27 — (AP) — The navy will show Nov. 7 how atomic bombs can be delivered by submarine.

It will be done by launching 15,000-pound guided missiles — "loons," which could carry atomic warheads — from the standard fleet type submarines Cusk and Carbonero.

Pacific Fleet headquarters said many of the advantages offered Organized Reservists. They hold the Navy rating to which they are entitled and may earn advancement. They also may participate in training and social activities sponsored by the Volunteer Reserve.

The demonstration will be a significant step in the exploitation of sea power," said Cmdr. John C. McCain, Jr., who has charge of submarine guided missile development. He added:

"The submarine, with guided missiles, has become a siege bombardment weapon an can be used to deliver atom bombs. The whole idea of using submarines to launch guided missiles is a long step toward push-button warfare."

The navy aid submarine is prepared in the Hawaiian war games concluded yesterday that they can carry high-speed, long-range guided missiles across oceans in normal underway operations.

For more than three years experiments and training has been carried on off Point Magu near San Diego, Calif.

"Loons" fired by the Cusk and Carbonero will streak past a 35-mile column of 70 ships at a speed of 400 to 500 miles an hour at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

The warships, which took part in the Hawaii maneuvers, will try to down the missiles with anti-aircraft fire. If the ships don't get them, fighter planes from the carriers Boxer and Valley Forge will get a chance.

Policeman Concur as saying that his son had been anxious to quit school and had been depressed the past several days.

Naval Reserve Membership Available

The Volunteer Reserve is the branch of the Naval Reserve which does not require active participation. It offers membership to those distant from Training Centers and Air Stations, or those whose job or other responsibilities do not permit them to be a part of an Organized Unit.

Volunteer Reservists enjoy many of the advantages offered Organized Reservists. They hold the Navy rating to which they are entitled and may earn advancement. They also may participate in training and social activities sponsored by the Volunteer Reserve.

Approximately 60 were present for the banquet. Mrs. Foy Hammans, president of the Hope B & P. Club gave the invocation.

Horace Hubbard, vocational guidance counselor, introduced the honor guest, Mrs. Irma Dean, for whom the local Future Teachers of America chapter was named. Mrs. Dean gave an interesting reading.

Mr. Hubbard also introduced other guests who included representatives of the schools in Hope.

Son of Author Charged With Stealing Gun

Los Angeles, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Federal agents have arrested a youth they identify as Erskine P. Caldwell, Jr., son of the author, on a charge of taking a stolen gun across state lines.

The youth, 22, was apprehended yesterday at a military academy where he teaches military science. The federal agents said an automatic shotgun stolen in Tucson, Ariz., last June had been traced to a Los Angeles pawnshop.

Caldwell was arraigned before a U. S. commissioner and held on $1,000 bonds. He told the commissioner he is free on $1,000 bail in connection with the Tucson burglary.

Says Sherman May Be New Naval Chief

Washington, Oct. 27 — (AP) — The Washington Post said today Vice Adm. Forrest T. Sherman, who has been mentioned as possible new chief of naval operations, is returning to the capital this week.

The Post quoted Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul H. Griffith as saying Sherman is being called home. It gave further support to reports that Adm. Louis Denfeld would be ousted from the navy high command as an upshot to the bitter inter-service quarrel.

"We are not interested in making a separate peace treaty," Grotewohl told the surprised newsman. "Our efforts are directed at a peace treaty for all Germany."

"We are fighting for fulfillment of the Potsdam agreement, signed by the four occupation powers.

We believe that this agreement would be the most valuable for Germany."

He said also his government would deal with the Berlin dispute "in the spirit of the Paris agreement providing a modus vivendi."

This was immediately viewed in Western quarters as a prelude to an Eastern offer to resume four-power discussions on Berlin.

Russian Plans Cancelled by Growing Revolt

Washington, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Observers said today that a growing revolt against communism in Eastern Germany apparently has forced the Russians to cancel plans for a separate peace treaty with their East German state.

Under a peace treaty, Russia would have to withdraw its occupying troops within one year, leaving the East German state in a precarious security position from the Kremlin viewpoint.

Voters opposed to the communist regime cast one third of the ballots in the election early this year. Current reports assert that the opposition is growing and that communist police are making numerous arrests to quell it.

East German leaders hinted for two weeks about a proposed separate peace treaty. But they abruptly reversed their attitude yesterday.

East German Premier Otto Grotewohl held a press conference for 100 newsmen and told them the East German regime did not want a separate peace treaty with Russia.

"We are not interested in making a separate peace treaty," Grotewohl told the surprised newsman. "Our efforts are directed at a peace treaty for all Germany."</

General MacArthur's elimination this week of floor prices on Japanese products has caused some concern in foreign trade centers that the Japanese might slash prices in an effort to increase sales.

Floor prices set by allied headquarters were the lowest at which Japan could export their goods.

Indagaki said prices on some Japanese products would fall but declined to estimate how much. Some observers think they may go down 15 per cent.

Japan Pledges to Steady Export Prices

Tokyo, Oct. 27 — (P) — Japan pledged today not to cut prices drastically on exports or dump them on the world market.

The assurance came from the minister of international trade, Heitaro Indagaki. He replied with an emphatic "no, not at all" when asked if Japan might return to prewar prices cutting and other trade practices.

Beer Permit Is Revoked at Hotel

Little Rock, Oct. 27 — (UP) — The beer permit of a hotel in the Ozarks resort city of Eureka Springs was surrendered here yesterday because mixed drinks were served to guests on the premises.

Arkansas Revenue Commissioner Dean R. Morley had ordered the operators of the Basin Park hotel to show cause why the permit should not be revoked. Joe Parkhill, manager of the hotel, and his attorney, former Rep. Claude Fuller, told the commissioners that local residents do not patronize the hotel bar.

Morley contended that the serving of drinks to visitors at the resort is necessary, and Parkhill explained: "Most of these people come from Chicago. If they want a cocktail before dinner and can't get it, they'll go somewhere else."

Morley said that he had revoked other permits on similar grounds and would not show favoritism. Then the permit was tossed onto his desk.

Morley also revoked the beer permit of Alice Baker Benoit of Eudora on charges of selling beer on Sunday and possession of untaxed liquor.

Earl (Red) Blaik, now in his ninth season as Army football coach, has held the post longer than any of his 22 predecessors.

DOROTHY DIX

Second Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: I am 28 years old and in love with a widower of 42. He has three children — a daughter, 14, son, 12, and a little boy, 4. This man frankly tells me that while he is very fond of me he could never give me the same deep and tender love he had to his first wife; also that I would come second to his children in his life. He would marry primarily to give them ideal home surroundings. He says he has been too many lives wrecked by second marriages where all memory of the first wife and mother was obliterated, so he wants the memory of his children's mother to be happy and lovingly fostered.

As for the children, they will soon be gone. Ten years at most and they will have flown the nest. In the meantime, considering their father's attitude, do not assume the role of mother to them. They come to the Tabernacle to their father and he carries them to almost every state in the union.

Explanation of New U. S. Wage Law

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 27 — (AP) — You're an employer. There's a new minimum wage-hour law. You want to know right now precisely what each item in it means and how it affects you, your business, your employees.

At this moment no one can give an answer saying what the law means in every possible case. Generally, this is true:

Most employers, employers and businesses covered by the old law, which was passed in 1938, are covered by the new law. But the new law has removed some people from coverage and has made some other changes as well.

The outstanding change: Every employee covered by the law now must be paid a minimum of 75 cents an hour. Under the old law the minimum was 40 cents.

But there were other changes, some of them stated in such clear language by congress that no one can misunderstand them. For example:

A public telephone exchange and its operators are exempt from the minimum wage and overtime provisions of the law if — that exchange serves less than 750 stations.

A number of other businesses and their employees are also exempted, clearly, under the new law.

But the law's effect on other businesses and their employees is far less clear. It's so unclear, in fact, that it probably will take years before court decisions say precisely what the effect is in different cases.

That's why — because of lack of clarity in the law — the wage-hour administration experts, who interpret the law and lay down the rules, can't at this time give opinions covering every possible case.

So, if you have any doubts as to how this new law affects you, your business or your workers, do one of two things:

1. Ask the wage-hour administration for a ruling in your case.

2. Ask your lawyer.

If you do No. 1 and don't like the decision the wage-hour administration gives you and then decide to ignore it, you'd better be ready for a court fight. It's the job of the wage-hour administration to see that the law, and its interpretation of the law, are lived up to.

Because no one at this time can give an explanation that will fit most possible cases, it's clear the final answer won't be in for years. Why?

Because various employers and their lawyers will decide that rulings handed down under the new law by the wage-hour administration are contrary to what congress intended when it wrote the law.

So they'll take it to court. Judges — including the justices of the Supreme court — in the end will have to clear up a number of questionable points under the new law.

In general way the law applies to all employers of businesses that have interstate commerce or produce for interstate commerce. But this is only general. The law makes some exceptions.

And in some cases it's the work done by the individual employee in a business covered by the law — which tells whether that employee is really covered by the law.

Becomes Lost

Washington, Oct. 26 — (AP) — Reporters covering the steel-steel strike news lost track of government mediation Chief Cyrus S. Cling for several hours yesterday.

One, calling his home, got Mrs. Ching. She was sympathetic but no help in locating her husband, a man 6 feet 7 inches tall weighing 220 pounds.

"It's like losing a bass fiddle, isn't it?" she laughed.

Ching turned up later. He'd been negotiating with some steelmakers.

For example:

Under the old law an employee was covered if he was considered necessary for production of goods in a firm engaged in interstate commerce.

Say, for example, that John Jones was a window washer in such a firm. If the wage-hour administration ruled that Jones' window-washing was a "necessary" part of the firm's business, then he was covered under the old law.

But the new law knocks out the word "necessary" and says the law applies only to people considered "directly essential" to the production of goods in interstate commerce.

Now, then, under the new law is Jones covered? Can he be considered "directly essential" to the firm's business? The same question might arise in the case of elevator operators, scrubwomen, and so on.

If the wage-hour administration now rules that washing windows is "directly essential" to the firm's work, the employer may argue: "He's not essential. I can still run my business without clean windows."

Then he calls in his lawyer and the fight starts in court to have a judge finally decide whether Jones is covered by the law.

So, you see, the law is still a mystery.

It's a mystery, but it's a mystery that's been solved by the wage-hour administration.

Students Plan Rally Prior to Hope-Spa Game

If the weather holds out the largest crowd of the season is expected to attend the Hope-Hot Springs football game here Friday night at 9 o'clock in the school stadium. It is something for the Bobcats who have been away three weeks.

Actually, the game doesn't mean a thing as far as conference standings are concerned but both would like mighty well to win. Hot Springs because a loss would not look so good for a member of the so-called Big Six loop, and Joe Dildy naturally would like to down the Bobcats which he formerly coached.

The Bobcats would like to continue their win string over the Trojans and it gives Hope fans and the team much satisfaction to lick a Big Six member.

Hope is in good shape as is Hot Springs. Both teams use the "T" formation.

Homecoming festivities start in the school auditorium Friday at 2:30 with the crowning of the two queens. Prior to the game the queens and maids will be escorted to their special seats by members of the team. The afternoon schedule calls for a pep rally and a downtown parade.

El Dorado, L. R. Play for Big Six Title

By The Associated Press
El Dorado and Little Rock meet Thursday night in a game which stacks up as the best high school football attraction of the season in Arkansas.

The championship of the Big Six division, the state's highest pigskin classification, will be at stake.

El Dorado can take the crown by winning, for it has beaten all other Big Six members. Little Rock, the defending champion and favorite on its home field, can practically but not mathematically sweep up the title by winning.

The game promises to be a hard fought one with the Tigers battling to even up their present conference record at one win and one defeat and get back in the race for this championship.

Buses carrying Tiger fans will leave Yerger High school at 5:30 p.m. Friday.

By Hugh B. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Oct. 27—(P)—Notre Dame's "four horsemen" have been around town, starting to whoop it up for their 25th anniversary gathering next month. And seein' those four guys together takes you back, not 25 but 26 years, to an October afternoon when you were a sophomore sitting in the bleachers at Princeton stadium. The four "Princetonites" tag, didn't come in then and are still there.

The loop directors, meeting here yesterday, approved the contract carrying a pay raise for Hurlin. The directors also approved the sale of the Atlanta Crackers and the Birmingham Barons without disclosing the terms of the sales.

R. W. Woodruff of Atlanta, former president of the firm which owned the Crackers, and G. J. Jelzely, formerly principal stockholder of the Barons, presented a check for $10,000.

Beef on Hoof Bringing Near Record Prices

Chicago, Oct. 27 — (P) — Beef on the hoof is selling today at near record prices in the union stockyards.

But, don't let that worry you. You aren't going to find that beef in your butcher shop with a near-record price tag. In fact, you aren't going to find it there.

The top 1949 price for cattle, prime yesterday, was $41.50 a hundred pounds for prime steers. That will drop to prime meat. It's the kind of meat which is sold directly to "name" restaurants, clubs and hotels. It doesn't get into the butcher shop.

"People who will buy these steaks won't care much whether the price is $3.00 or $500," one livestock commission man said.

"There's always a steady demand for beef from those restaurants, regardless of price."

Percy Clark, cattle feeder of O'Brien, Iowa, sent in the top price last week which consisted of 17 head of Aberdeen-Angus steers.

In the last two weeks prices for the prime cattle have skyrocketed. The price is now only ten cents a hundred pounds under the all-time peak made in September of last year.

Average grades of cattle haven't moved on with prime steers, and one result is that the price spread between the top and bottom on the steer scale is today the widest on record.

Two weeks ago the top price for prime cattle was $36.25 — or $5.25 less than yesterday. But medium grades two weeks ago sold in a range of $10.50 to $17.50 compared with $19.00 to $25.00 yesterday.

Only three members of the Yale football squad weigh more than 200 pounds, and the heaviest man goes only 205.

Kuhel Assigned to Manage K. C. Blues

New York, Oct. 27 — (P) — Joe Kuhel is the new member of the New Yorkers, sprawling baseball family — his job, manager of the Kansas City blues of the American association.

The onetime major league first baseman, who just finished a two-year tenure as manager of the Washington Senators, was hired by the Yankees yesterday to direct their Triple-A affiliate.

Kuhel succeeds Bill Skiff, who remains in the organization in a capacity not yet disclosed.

The new Kansas City pilot was a major league first baseman from 1937 to 1947, closing his playing career with the Chicago White Sox.

He managed Hot Springs, Ark., in the Cotton States league in 1947 and then succeeded Ossie Bluege at Washington in 1948. His Senators finished seventh in 1948 and last this year.

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

It's odd how things happen to people, everything piling up at once sometimes. At the end of March everything seemed to go wrong for Tod. The office promotion he'd been promised at the end of three months went to someone else, and the only explanation they gave was that his work wasn't quite up to expectations.

Then the woman who'd rented Ma the rooms said they'd have to move. Her married daughter had been evicted and she had to move them into the place.

Tod got to worrying over what they'd do, and had a light stroke. Tod was frantic. He tried to get Harriet to look for rooms, since she didn't have anything particular to do, but she had other plans.

"Harriet!" he followed her to the door. "Look! Wait, won't you? I've got no one to turn to."

She flung him a broken look. "And who's fault is that?" He was frantic. The landlady wouldn't reconsider. "I know it seems a hateful thing to do, and if I didn't already have my son and daughter-in-law and their kids in the way, I'd take your Ma in, but the way it is my daughter gettin' married right now in the street, I don't see what else I can do. Sure you got friends that'll take her?"

"I suppose I can find someone," Tod mumbled. He tried to think maybe some of the people Ma had used to know on Catalpa Street, or the Welfare. His soul shrank from the latter, because Ma would hate it. She would never forgive him if he appealed to Welfare to find a place for her.

His mind whirled in dizzy circles and kept coming back again and again to Harriet's suggestion. Jenny. She was the only person in the whole world he would dare appeal to and be sure of not being turned away. She was the only one in the world whose generosity and warmth he was sure of. It was ironic.

"Oh, hasn't it?" She shut the suitcase with a bang. "It's a roof, ain't it? And that's what you're yelling for. Me, I'm going back to Chicago. I've had enough of this."

Well, it's quite simple to do that," Harriet said. She was calm, packing her suitcase. "You're paying for that house out on Riverdale Road aren't you?"

"That's got nothing to do with this."

"Oh, hasn't it?" She shut the suitcase with a bang. "It's a roof, ain't it? And that's what you're yelling for. Me, I'm going back to Chicago. I've had enough of this."

Government Seeks Cause of Wrecks

Port Deposit, Md., Oct. 26.—(UPI)—Government investigators examined the wreckage of a twin-engine private plane today in an effort to determine the cause of a crash that brought death to a prominent race track executive and three companions.

Among the victims was Henry L. Strauss, millionaire president of Tropical Park race track in Florida and of the American Totalizator Co., Inc., of Baltimore. This company operates the total-izers and pari-mutuel machines at all race tracks.

Others killed in the crash were Arthur J. Johnstone of Ruxton, Md., general manager of the Straus firm; Raymond Osborne of Lake Worth, Fla., pilot of the Beechcraft plane and W. H. Nale, also of Lake Worth, the co-pilot.

The plane crashed during a light rain in a wooded section about a mile from the spot where an Eastern Air Lines DC-4 plummeted to earth on Memorial day, 1947, killing 53 persons.

State police said they have no idea what caused the latest mishap. Investigators of the civil aeronautics board took over the inquiry.

The plane, owned by the totalizator firm, took off from La Guardia airport in New York at 5 p.m., EST, enroute to Baltimore. There were two eyewitnesses to the crash.

Donald Cole of nearby Perryville said he heard the plane "burst into flames" overhead and notified the Port Deposit fire department. Arnold Sumpter, also of Perryville, said he saw the craft "falling in flames" and called the state police.

Fullback John Fanelli and End George Brodnax, new players with the pro Detroit Lions, each were assistant coaches at Notre Dame and Georgia Tech, respectively, this spring.

Welfare Dept. Makes Policy Changes

The Welfare Department, according to Mrs. Henry Bethell, commissioner of Public Welfare, has made some changes in policy in order to speed up the work of county visitors, and to increase uniformly on a state-wide basis.

These changes have been made necessary by the heavy case load of county visitors. The total number of recipients in the state is now nearly 75,000 and the average case load per visitor is about 430. Hempstead county has an average of 3,200 per visitor. Each of these cases must be re-evaluated annually.

Furthermore, there are still 7,300 pending applications to be investigated by the county visitors. About 3,000 more apply every month. In August, 2,366 applications were investigated. About three-fourths of these were found eligible and about one-fourth were ineligible.

The work of the county visitors has been stepped up by the use of a simpler table to determine the food needs of people. Heretofore in an effort to find the needs of different applicants a table was used which showed 42 different classes according to the sex, degree of activity, and size of family. The visitor had to decide where the applicant best fitted into this complicated table.

In the new table there are only three classes and these are divided according to age alone. In this plan a child of 5 years or less needs $12 monthly for food. A child older than eleven years of age needs $17 a month for food. This may not be than an adult needs $19 a month for food. This may not be exact as the former method, but it is approximately correct, and saves hours of time according to studies which have been made by the Welfare Department.

It is also much easier now to count the value of produce raised at home. Formerly, the exact amount of milk, meat, eggs, potatoes, and other vegetables needed for each person according to his age, sex, and degree of activity was determined. From this was subtracted the value of any of these items which he produced for himself, minus what he said it cost him to produce. This used up much of the county visitor's time.

Another table has been worked out to help the county visitor do this work more quickly. It shows, for example, that a cow will produce enough milk for five people. She is worth $120 a month to each of these persons, excluding the cost of feed.

Likewise the table shows that four hens will lay enough eggs for one person. It shows also that 125 lbs. of pork are needed per person. If a client has less than this amount for any member of his family, nothing is deducted from his payment for that resource.

A small garden will not be counted as a resource unless a person has as much as 1-10 of an acre or 4,356 sq. ft. in the cultivated plot. This is considered to be worth $125 a month to him in fresh and canned vegetables, over and above the cost of production.

Shelter costs are included in a budget on an "as paid" basis, with maximums based on the location of the home and size of the family. The amount paid for shelter has been very low, because the Welfare Department has so low that after buying food, the clients have had little money left for shelter. More than half of the old age clients pay nothing for shelter. In a recent study, the average shelter cost among those who pay for shelter is $40 a month.

Under the new regulations the applicant must also list all of his resources and say precisely that he may own when he makes application for assistance. This information was not included on the application form before. Under the new policies any real estate other than the homestead must be considered in making a plan to help meet the needs of any person.

The new policies tend to increase uniformity in the determination of Welfare grants, because there is less necessity for personal decision. A child is either five years of age or he is not. The family has a cow or it does not have one. They have 125 lbs of pork per person or they do not have. The amounts to be included in the budget are definite and do not vary.

The new policies will enable county visitors to calculate the needs of applicants and recipients much more rapidly. Mrs. Bethell stated that she hopes it will be possible for them to net on applications more quickly so that there will not be a long pending list of applications and so that an applicant can soon know whether or not he is eligible for assistance.

The addition of 49 new visitors as provided by the last legislature will also enable the department to give more prompt service. Until this number of visitors was added, Mrs. Bethell said, the department operated under practically the same amount of personnel it had 13 years ago when the case load was only 10,000 as compared with the 75,000 it now has.

Pointing out that "monetary aid is not always the answer", Mrs. Bethell is working on the theory that more visitors will enable the department to offer more aid of a type other than cash grants and to do a better job of rehabilitation.

At the same time the addition of more visitors will make the department's money go farther.

As in the past the County Department is glad to discuss the Department's policy of appeals and fair hearings with any person who is dissatisfied with any decision.

Daisy Mountain Brothers Face Murder Charges

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(UPI)—Two brothers were in jail today without bond on murder charges in connection with the near-legendary "off-and-on" Daisy mountain feud.

Brothers Raymond and Ed Bell, both in their twenties, are charged with the axe murder of William L. (Boots) Parker during a fight on Daisy mountain last week.

The brothers were bound over to the grand jury and refused bond yesterday in a preliminary hearing.

The hearing was before Judge Frank Chanee in the Hamilton county sessions court.

First Line of Defense Is Big Question

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles summing up and analyzing the armed services controversy.)

By BARNEY LIVINGSTON

Washington, Oct. 25.—(UPI)—What is to be the nation's first line of defense? The strategic long-range bomber. Or naval carrier aviation?

This, very much in brief, is the thorny question which the admirals and the generals have been debating in all its pros and cons before a perplexed nation in recent weeks.

On the solution of these differences—strategic versus tactical airpower—may rest the course of initial U. S. defense strategy in case of war.

The navy's admirals touched on the explosive dispute with the assertion that too much dependence is being laid on unproven strategic bombing (the raiding of distant targets as contrasted with air attacks in close support of other

This conception relegates the navy, it says, to the "second priority" air role of anti-submarine and convoy duty.

What then is the navy's appraisal of strategic bombing?

The admirals say the high-flying strategic bombers, by the very inaccuracy of their bomb drops, can not constitute a major factor in the war picture.

fighting forces.) Underlying the whole dispute is the universally held assumption among our military planners that the next war—if it comes—will pit the United States against the world's greatest land power, namely, Soviet Russia.

It is to command the air what is bothering the admirals and the generals.

Our strategic air planners, in their testimony before the house armed services committee, have stated that the long-range strategic bomber is:

1. The prime retaliatory weapon upon the outbreak of war.
2. The best weapon to destroy the war-making potential of the enemy.

3. And finally, the only weapon by which we can strike into the heart of Russia—the nation occupying the greatest land mass in the world.

Some insight into what these admirals and air force planners think is furnished by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. He told congressmen:

"Ultimately, we will have to carry the war back to the enemy by all means at our disposal.

Admirals are convinced that this will include strategic air bombardment and large-scale land operations.

"I also predict that large-scale amphibious operations, such as those in Sicily and Normandy will never occur again."

This conception relegates the navy, it says, to the "second priority" air role of anti-submarine and convoy duty.

A lard stand is a convenient container in which to store and fumigate seeds. For small quantities may be used. In any case, the container should be absolutely airtight, the home demonstration agent points out. Since carbon disulfide is highly inflammable, the fumigation chamber should be away from all buildings.

Heating is a convenient way to destroy weevils in small lots of peas or beans to be used for eating. Placing beans in shallow pans of too much carbon disulfide or failure to air the beans or peas may cause trouble. Peas or beans left eating may be tainted and plants set out may not germinate.

Grandson of Marshall Field Ends Own Life

London, Oct. 26 — (P) — The honorable Peter Beatty, son of a famed admiral and grandson of Chicago merchant prince Marshall Field, Sr., plunged to his death today from a sixth floor window in the fashionable Ritz hotel. He had just been told he was going totally blind.

The 39-year-old race horse owner fell to the ground at the rear of the Ritz, which is in Piccadilly, in the center of London.

Beatty, a handsome, wealthy aristocrat and friend of Aly Khan and Rita Hayworth, was born with a serious eye affliction. He spent thousands of dollars for operations both here and in America. Recently a specialist told him his dim sight was failing and he must face the fact it soon would be gone entirely.

"I am going to the sixth floor to see a friend," he was quoted as telling his valet in his suite on the second floor of the Ritz this morning. Clad in blue pajamas and a red dressing gown, he walked to the sixth floor.

Tall and dark, Beatty had been described as one of England's most eligible bachelors. He was a brother of Earl Beatty and a son of the late Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty, hero of the Battle of Jutland in the First World War.

His mother, Stet, was the only daughter of the late Marshall Field. She died in 1932, leaving him a fortune.

Beatty's sight was so poor that his manservant had to help him wherever he walked. For years he had been unable to see his horses run. He went to the tracks and his manager described the races to him.

His horse, Bois Roussel won the English derby in 1938. He had had many lesser successes.

Aly Khan and Rita Hayworth were guests at his luxurious home, Mereworth castle, near Maidstone, last June. Aly and Rita came here for the derby.

Beatty's 18th century house — not strictly a castle although it is as such — a replica of an Italian villa. It formerly was owned by Lord Rothermere, one of Britain's press barons.

Dick Powell and June Allyson to Visit Hawaii

Hollywood, Oct. 25 — (P) — Actor Dick Powell and his wife, June Allyson, are going to Hawaii next month for a three or four weeks vacation.

They are leaving Nov. 26, shortly after they finish a picture they are making together at MGM studios. "We've never been in Hawaii," Powell said. "We've promised friends for three years we'd go there, but we never could get away from our picture work at the same time."

They will go with Justin Dart, drug chain executive, and his wife, and plan to be back home for Christmas with their adopted daughter, Pamela.

"I saw Jimmy Stewart the other day," said Powell. "He'd just got back from Hawaii. If I look as well as he does when I come back, I'll be satisfied."

The 12 seasons in which Jimmy Stewart hit 30 or more home runs each second only to Babe Ruth's campaigns.

College to Get $50,000,000 Endowment

Washington, Miss., Oct. 25 — (P) — Jefferson Military College has qualified for a $50,000,000 request by agreeing to teach white supremacy.

The school's announcement last night came from A. J. Armstrong, business manager and son of George Armstrong, benefactor of the 102-year-old prep institute.

The college declined to publicize its enrollment, but estimates place it at between 60 and 90 cadets. Young Armstrong said his father had notified the board of trustees he would give the school all of his mineral rights in Mississippi upon certain conditions.

These conditions, which Armstrong said the school had accepted, called for the exclusion of "any instructor or employee who is a known communist or has communistic leanings or who is of African or Asiatic origin."

In addition, the elder Armstrong specified that the faculty and student body be composed primarily of persons of Anglo-Saxon and Latin American antecedents who hold "the true Christian faith."

Another requirement called for establishment of a curricula devoted chiefly to "the constitution, Christianity and the superiority of the Anglo-Saxon and Latin-American races."

The young Armstrong said the endowment would include portions of mineral rights on 42,000 acres in three counties in addition to 28,000 acres to be conveyed to the school.

He said the endowment included three producing oil wells and that overall the bequest probably would exceed $50,000,000.

Men Get Fun in Hunting Meat or Family

There's fun for the men of the house in providing a variety of meats for the family table this winter. Hunting and fishing can supply an abundance of wild game and fowl here in Hempstead county. Home demonstration agents, Lorraine Blackwood, offer home-makers information on preparing these meats for the table.

Adults need at least a fourth of a pound of lean meat daily along with other protein foods such as eggs, cheese and nuts. Mrs. Blackwood explained. From 90 to 115 pounds of lean meat is required each year for the average adult. Recommending a variety, home demonstration agent suggests that squirrel, duck, quail, turkey, deer, possum, rabbit and fish, may be special on the menu of game lovers. Wild game and fish with pork, beef, lamb and poultry, will provide the variety of meats necessary for good health.

Eisenhower Would Broader Social Welfare

Washington, Oct. 26 — (P) — Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) today urged Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to broaden the scope of a proposed conference on the nation's social and economic welfare.

Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, suggested that leaders in various fields meet with the faculties of great educational institutions to draw a dividing line between the responsibilities of government and those of individuals.

He told the New York Herald Tribune forum earlier this week: "The task is to promote social and economic welfare without jeopardy to individual freedom and right."

Eisenhower called attention to the coal and steel strikes and said those industries are slow down "because a few men cannot see eye-to-eye on specific items of employee and employer responsibility." Then he added: "If they — of undoubted loyalty to American — can dare calamity by their failure to agree on a far more simple decision, how can the plain citizen determine the dividing line between his own and the government's responsibilities?"

Sterope Wins

Newmarket, England, Oct. 26 — (P) — Sterope, a 33 to 1 choice in the pre-race betting, won the Cambridgeshire stakes today in a photo-finish with Good Taste. Sterope also won a year ago.

Third place went to Meysey Hampton. The official decision was that Sterope won by a head. Good Taste had a three length margin over Meysey Hampton.
